A comprehensive handbook, which includes the academic calendar, has been prepared to provide course details, examination guidelines, the CBCS system framework, internal exam schedules, add-on course information, and an overview of various events. Additionally, it outlines the code of conduct, leave policies, attendance requirements, and other general information for students. The handbook is distributed to all students and is also available on the college website.

Regular departmental meetings, as well as discussions between the Principal and Heads of Departments (HoDs), are held to strategize for the smooth conduct of classes and effective curriculum implementation. Minutes of these meetings are meticulously documented. Timetables, subject allocations, and teachers' workloads are organized at the departmental level and shared with both students and staff. Notices for urgent updates are issued from the Principal's office.

The Learning Management System (LMS) is utilized for maintaining attendance records. Each department prepares an annual planner to ensure timely and effective execution of academic activities. Records of various activities, teaching plans, and compliance reports are maintained within the departments. To adapt to the new objective-type university examination system, subject teachers have developed extensive question banks of multiple-choice questions to provide students with adequate practice.

For certain other courses, the distribution is 30 marks for CIA, 20 marks for practicals/projects/viva, and 50 marks for the university examination. Tentative dates for internal examinations are provided in the handbook, and the final examination schedule is communicated to respective departments once confirmed.

The CIA includes diverse evaluation methods such as written internal exams, class tests, open-book tests, presentations, viva voce, group discussions, and more. First-term internal exams are conducted at the departmental level as per the academic calendar. Student performance is reviewed and discussed immediately after the assessment to facilitate improvement. Departments prepare an activity planner for various courses, with evaluation based on the activities conducted by the respective faculty. A detailed mark allocation for each activity is prepared and shared with the concerned faculty. After assessment, faculty members submit the marks to the Heads of Departments (HoDs) or Coordinators, and following their confirmation, the marks are forwarded to the Exam Cell.

The completed assessments are explained to students to help them improve their performance. In cases of genuine absence, provisions for re-examinations are made.

2.5.2 - Mechanism to deal with internal examination related grievances is transparent, time- bound and efficient

The College-level Grievance Redressal Committee addresses student grievances related to all matters, including internal examinations, ensuring a transparent, time-bound, and effective resolution process. The college website provides a Student Grievance Form under the "Student Grievances" section. Students can print and complete the form, then email it to exam@christcollegepune.org or submit a hard copy to the concerned teacher.

In genuine cases, students may directly contact the subject teacher by submitting a written application to the respective teacher or the Coordinators/Heads of Departments (HoDs). Upon approval, the student is notified in advance about the re-examination schedule, which is conducted promptly, evaluated swiftly, and feedback is shared with the student.

If a grievance cannot be resolved at the subject teacher's level, it is escalated to the concerned Coordinator or HoD. If further resolution is required, the issue is forwarded to the Exam Cell. Concerns regarding internal marking systems, absenteeism, or other exam-related issues are typically resolved at the departmental level. Retests are conducted based on departmental recommendations.

If the grievance remains unresolved at the departmental level, students have the option to email their concerns to the Exam Cell, where the College Examination Officer (CEO) ensures appropriate resolution.

2.6 - Student Performance and Learning Outcomes

2.6.1 - Teachers and students are aware of the stated Programme and course outcomes of the Programmes offered by the institution.

At Christ College, every program is designed with specific outcomes that outline the knowledge, skills, and attitudes students are expected to develop. These program outcomes align with the institution's values and are achieved through various courses. Each course has clearly defined outcomes based on Revised Bloom's Taxonomy, specifying the knowledge and skills students will gain, along with the minimum performance required to pass. Faculty members create course outlines before the start of each semester, detailing program and course objectives, outcomes, materials, pedagogy, and assessment methods.

These course plans are reviewed by the principal, subject matter experts, and other department instructors for feedback. Once approved, the course plan is shared with students through the Learning Management System (LMS). In addition, the outcomes are introduced during orientation and parent meetings, and clarified through regular mentoring sessions.

The IQAC organizes training programs for faculty to improve their understanding of outcome-based education, focusing on defining meaningful outcomes, choosing appropriate teaching methods, and using assessment techniques to measure outcome achievement. The graduate qualities, program outcomes, and course outcomes are publicly available on the institute’s website.

2.6.2 - Attainment of Programme outcomes and course outcomes are evaluated by the institution.

Evaluating the attainment of program outcomes (POs) and course outcomes (COs) is essential for academic excellence and continuous quality improvement. The college’s IQAC has a clear process for assessing COs and POs using both direct and indirect methods.

Direct method:

- This evaluates student performance through university exams.
- Academic departments assess POs based on exam results, selecting 20% of students randomly from each program to ensure a representative sample.
- The marks these students receive are documented in a predefined structure.

Indirect method:

- An exit survey for final-year students, using a questionnaire, assesses all aspects of the curriculum and COs/POs for UG/PG students.
- The survey includes ten questions, each rated on a 10-point scale, covering various academic fields such as management, science, commerce, and arts.
- The survey gathers feedback on the students' perceived knowledge, skills, and attitudes gained during their academic journey.

The final score of the direct and indirect method and taking the average as the attainment.

6.1 - Institutional Vision and Leadership

6.1.1 - The governance of the institution is reflective of and in tune with the vision and mission of the institution

Christ College - Pune is dedicated to delivering value-based education, guided by its motto, "Enlighten to Excel." Its mission emphasizes education as a tool for personal growth and societal contribution, aiming to cultivate leaders with intellectual competence, moral integrity, and social responsibility. 6.1.2 - The effective leadership is visible in various institutional practices such as decentralization and participative management.

The Institute emphasizes decentralized and participative management through clearly defined functional cells and committees, ensuring active involvement of staff and students. Initiatives are planned during meetings of the College Development Committee (CDC) and the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), with the Director overseeing their effective implementation through committees such as the Chief Executive Council, Student Development Committee, and others addressing placement, grievances, harassment, and cultural activities. These committees include faculty, administrative staff, and student representatives, fostering collective leadership and responsibility.

The Director delegates authority to Department Heads, ensuring smooth execution of academic and co-curricular activities. Staff members are assigned responsibilities for organizing value-added initiatives like seminars, workshops, career counselling, skill enhancement sessions, industrial visits, and study tours. This collective leadership approach promotes efficient management and collaboration.

A notable example of participative management is the organization of a conference, where faculty members played a significant role in planning and execution. The success of such events underscores the Institute's commitment to decentralization and collaborative governance, which enhances the institution's ability to deliver academic and extracurricular excellence. 6.3.5 - Institutions Performance Appraisal System for teaching and non- teaching staff

The institute implements an effective performance management system to enhance individual and team performance, employing structured appraisals for both teaching and non-teaching staff.

Teaching staff Appraisal: The evaluation focuses on innovative teaching methods, course delivery, student feedback, and course pass percentages. Four key components define the appraisal:

1. Self-Appraisal: Faculty submit self-appraisal forms based on UGC's Academic Performance Indicators (API), which are reviewed by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC).

2. HOD Evaluation: Heads of Departments (HODs) prepare performance reports for their faculty, considering multiple criteria.

3. Event Coordination: Faculty involvement in event organization is assessed.

4. Student Feedback: Feedback forms collected from students provide insights into teaching effectiveness.

The IQAC consolidates these reports and presents them to the Principal. Based on the analysis, discussions are held with faculty to offer constructive feedback, address grievances, and suggest improvements, fostering continuous development.

Non-Teaching Staff Appraisal: Non-teaching staff are evaluated on parameters such as awareness, productivity, work quality, and contributions to the institution. These criteria ensure accountability and identify areas for growth.

This systematic appraisal process promotes accountability, identifies improvement opportunities, and nurtures a culture of excellence and professional growth within the institute.

6.4 - Financial Management and Resource Mobilization

6.4.1 - Institution conducts internal and external financial audits regularly Enumerate the various internal and external financial audits carried out during the year with the mechanism for settling audit objections within a maximum of 200 words

The institution ensures financial accuracy and transparency through comprehensive internal and external audits. The primary purpose of these audits is to verify the authenticity of financial transactions and maintain accurate records.

The scope of financial governance includes developing activity-based budgeting with time-bound deliverables and accountability-linked administrative and financial autonomy. The accounts department prepares the annual budget for revenue and capital expenditures, which is approved by the management. Expenses are monitored to align with budgeted resources, avoiding deficit budgeting. Monthly and annual income and expenditure statements (Budget Variance Reports) are analyzed for corrective measures if deviations occur.

Internal Audit is conducted by a management-appointed auditor, ensuring daily verification of transactions, including purchases, cash handling, bank reconciliations, and statutory payments. Periodic reports are submitted to the management for review and action.

External Audit is performed by an auditor appointed through a formal resolution. This audit emphasizes verifying capital expenditures, income sources, statutory payments, and compliance with regulatory requirements. It complements internal audit findings to certify financial accuracy.

Additionally, audits required by the University (SPPU), such as the National Service Scheme (NSS) fund audit and library expense audit, are conducted. Any objections are resolved by the NSS coordinator and Principal. Through these robust mechanisms, the institution achieves and maintains financial integrity and compliance.

6.4.3 - Institutional strategies for mobilization of funds and the optimal utilization of resources

The institute follows a structured process for mobilizing and utilizing resources and funds, involving Department Heads, the Accounts Office, and Management approval. Tuition fees serve as the primary revenue source, with specific guidelines ensuring the budgeted allocation of funds.

Utilization of Funds: A Finance Committee oversees expenditures, both recurring and non-recurring. For purchases like equipment, books, and computers, price estimates are requested from suppliers. Quotations are evaluated by designated members based on pricing, quality, and service terms, ensuring informed decisions. The Principal collaborates with the Accounts Department to verify alignment with the approved budget. Management is consulted for clarity or approval if spending exceeds the budget.

Resource Mobilization Policy: Before the financial year begins, the Principal and Department Heads prepare the institutional budget, covering salaries, utilities, maintenance, and capital expenditures like laboratory equipment and furnishings. The senior management and Governing Council review and approve the budget. Expenditures are closely monitored by the Accounts and Purchase Departments to avoid budget overruns. Statutory auditors validate the financial statements annually.

This robust system ensures efficient resource management, financial accountability, and alignment with institutional goals while maintaining transparency and adherence to the approved budget.

CURRICULAR ASPECTS

1.1 - Curricular Planning and Implementation

1.1.1 - The Institution ensures effective curriculum delivery through a well planned and documented process

The college offers six university-approved undergraduate (UG) programs and two postgraduate (PG) programs across all departments, adhering to the norms of the affiliating university. A comprehensive handbook, which includes the academic calendar, has been prepared to provide course details, examination guidelines, the CBCS system framework, internal exam schedules, add-on course information, and an overview of various events. Additionally, it outlines the code of conduct, leave policies, attendance requirements, and other general information for students. The handbook is distributed to all students and is also available on the college website.

Regular departmental meetings, as well as discussions between the Principal and Heads of Departments (HoDs), are held to strategize for the smooth conduct of classes and effective curriculum implementation. Minutes of these meetings are meticulously documented. Timetables, subject allocations, and teachers' workloads are organized at the departmental level and shared with both students and staff. Notices for urgent updates are issued from the Principal's office.

The Learning Management System (LMS) is utilized for maintaining attendance records. Each department prepares an annual planner to ensure timely and effective execution of academic activities. Records of various activities, teaching plans, and compliance reports are maintained within the departments. To adapt to the new objective-type university examination system, subject teachers have developed extensive question banks of multiple-choice questions to provide students with adequate practice.

1.1.2 - The institution adheres to the academic calendar including for the conduct of Continuous Internal Evaluation (CIE)

The NEP (National Education Policy) has been introduced in the PG programs' examination schedule, and university norms regarding the evaluation of internal and external examinations are detailed in the student handbook. The college strictly adheres to university circulars for the conduct of practical and external examinations.

All activities listed in the activity planner, prepared by various departments, form an integral part of the evaluation process. Continuous Internal Evaluation (CIE) sheets are prepared at the department level and sent to respective subject teachers, serving as the basis for continuous student assessment. This process incorporates both objective and subjective assessment methods.

CIE is conducted through various methods such as assignments, quizzes, open-book tests, tutorials, seminars, case studies, mini-projects, group discussions, etc. ICT-based evaluation is also employed, utilizing platforms like Google Classroom, Quizizz, Mentimeter, and others. The timetable for internal evaluations is displayed on notice boards and shared with students via social media.

If a student is unable to attend a scheduled examination due to a genuine reason, they may apply for a re-test by submitting a proper application. Practical CIE follows a similar approach, employing methods such as PowerPoint presentations, project demonstrations, internships, surveys, case studies, journal completion, and viva voce. Clear guidelines and instructions for project submissions are communicated to students.

All examination-related activities are planned and executed as per a predetermined schedule, with information shared through notices. Additionally, the evaluation of Add-on Courses is conducted by various departments and scheduled in advance, with notices issued to inform students accordingly.

2.2 - Catering to Student Diversity

2.2.1 - The institution assesses the learning levels of the students and organizes special Programmes for advanced learners and slow learners

The admission process involves counseling for each student, a panel discussion with the program HOD, and a final interview with the principal to ensure informed decisions. The admitted cohort includes a mix of bright and average students, with various measures implemented to support their growth.

Library facilities are accessible to all students. Mid-semester, parents meet with faculty to discuss their child's progress. A mentor-mentee system is in place, where mentors maintain a Mentoring Book to track student records and identify slow and advanced learners. This system aids in understanding their capabilities, challenges, and performance levels, allowing tailored support to enhance their academic and career success.

For slow learners, initiatives include remedial classes, distribution of subject-specific MCQs and question banks, and group discussions involving both slow and advanced learners to encourage knowledge sharing.

For advanced learners, efforts focus on motivating them to achieve university ranks. Rank holders are honored to inspire others. Advanced technical training programs are organized, and students are encouraged to participate in external learning opportunities. These strategies collectively aim to boost academic outcomes and prepare students for successful careers.

Faculty members in the college leverage ICT tools extensively to enhance the teaching-learning process. All classrooms are equipped with interactive boards, projectors, and Wi-Fi, creating an environment conducive to active learning and engagement. This infrastructure enables personalized instruction, fosters collaboration, and provides students access to diverse educational resources.

Teachers use a range of online tools, including Google Classroom, MS Office, Quizizz, YouTube, Kahoot, Mentimeter, Flippity, Google Workspace, Curipod, and Whimsical. 2.5 - Evaluation Process and Reforms

2.5.1 - Mechanism of internal assessment is transparent and robust in terms of frequency and mode. Write description within 200 words.

The college adheres to the Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) for both undergraduate and postgraduate programs, in line with university regulations. The assessment structure allocates 30 marks for Continuous Internal Assessment (CIA) and 70 marks for the university examination for major courses. For certain other courses, the distribution is 30 marks for CIA, 20 marks for practicals/projects/viva, and 50 marks for the university examination. Tentative dates for internal examinations are provided in the handbook, and the final examination schedule is communicated to respective departments once confirmed.

The CIA includes diverse evaluation methods such as written internal exams, class tests, open-book tests, presentations, viva voce, group discussions, and more. First-term internal exams are conducted at the departmental level as per the academic calendar. Student performance is reviewed and discussed immediately after the assessment to facilitate improvement. Departments prepare an activity planner for various courses, with evaluation based on the activities conducted by the respective faculty. A detailed mark allocation for each activity is prepared and shared with the concerned faculty. After assessment, faculty members submit the marks to the Heads of Departments (HoDs) or Coordinators, and following their confirmation, the marks are forwarded to the Exam Cell.

The completed assessments are explained to students to help them improve their performance. In cases of genuine absence, provisions for re-examinations are made.

2.5.2 - Mechanism to deal with internal examination related grievances is transparent, time-bound and efficient

The College-level Grievance Redressal Committee addresses student grievances related to all matters, including internal examinations, ensuring a transparent, time-bound, and effective resolution process. The college website provides a Student Grievance Form under the "Student Grievances" section. Students can print and complete the form, then email it to exam@christcollegepune.org or submit a hard copy to the concerned teacher.

In genuine cases, students may directly contact the subject teacher by submitting a written application to the respective teacher or the Coordinators/Heads of Departments (HoDs). Upon approval, the student is notified in advance about the re-examination schedule, which is conducted promptly, evaluated swiftly, and feedback is shared with the student.

If a grievance cannot be resolved at the subject teacher's level, it is escalated to the concerned Coordinator or HoD. If further resolution is required, the issue is forwarded to the Exam Cell. Concerns regarding internal marking systems, absenteeism, or other exam-related issues are typically resolved at the departmental level. Retests are conducted based on departmental recommendations.

If the grievance remains unresolved at the departmental level, students have the option to email their concerns to the Exam Cell, where the College Examination Officer (CEO) ensures appropriate resolution.

2.6 - Student Performance and Learning Outcomes

2.6.1 - Teachers and students are aware of the stated Programme and course outcomes of the Programmes offered by the institution.

At Christ College, every program is designed with specific outcomes that outline the knowledge, skills, and attitudes students are expected to develop. These program outcomes align with the institution's values and are achieved through various courses. Each course has clearly defined outcomes based on Revised Bloom's Taxonomy, specifying the knowledge and skills students will gain, along with the minimum performance required to pass. Faculty members create course outlines before the start of each semester, detailing program and course objectives, outcomes, materials, pedagogy, and assessment methods.

These course plans are reviewed by the principal, subject matter experts, and other department instructors for feedback. Once approved, the course plan is shared with students through the Learning Management System (LMS). In addition, the outcomes are introduced during orientation and parent meetings, and clarified through regular mentoring sessions.

The IQAC organizes training programs for faculty to improve their understanding of outcome-based education, focusing on defining meaningful outcomes, choosing appropriate teaching methods, and using assessment techniques to measure outcome achievement. The graduate qualities, program outcomes, and course outcomes are publicly available on the institute's website.

2.6.2 - Attainment of Programme outcomes and course outcomes are evaluated by the institution.

Evaluating the attainment of program outcomes (POs) and course outcomes (COs) is essential for academic excellence and continuous quality improvement. The college's IQAC has a clear process for assessing COs and POs using both direct and indirect methods.

Direct method:

- This evaluates student performance through university exams.
- Academic departments assess POs based on exam results, selecting 20% of students randomly from each program to ensure a representative sample.
- The marks these students receive are documented in a predefined structure.

Indirect method:

- An exit survey for final-year students, using a questionnaire, assesses all aspects of the curriculum and COs/POs for UG/PG students.
- The survey includes ten questions, each rated on a 10-point scale, covering various academic fields such as management, science, commerce, and arts.

- The survey gathers feedback on the students' perceived knowledge, skills, and attitudes gained during their academic journey.

The final score of the direct and indirect method and taking the average as the attainment.

6.3.5 - Institutions Performance Appraisal System for teaching and non- teaching staff

The institute implements an effective performance management system to enhance individual and team performance, employing structured appraisals for both teaching and non-teaching staff.

Teaching staff Appraisal: The evaluation focuses on innovative teaching methods, course delivery, student feedback, and course pass percentages. Four key components define the appraisal:

1. Self-Appraisal: Faculty submit self-appraisal forms based on UGC's Academic Performance Indicators (API), which are reviewed by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC).
2. HOD Evaluation: Heads of Departments (HODs) prepare performance reports for their faculty, considering multiple criteria.
3. Event Coordination: Faculty involvement in event organization is assessed.
4. Student Feedback: Feedback forms collected from students provide insights into teaching effectiveness.

The IQAC consolidates these reports and presents them to the Principal. Based on the analysis, discussions are held with faculty to offer constructive feedback, address grievances, and suggest improvements, fostering continuous development.

Non-Teaching Staff Appraisal: Non-teaching staff are evaluated on parameters such as awareness, productivity, work quality, and contributions to the institution. These criteria ensure accountability and identify areas for growth.

This systematic appraisal process promotes accountability, identifies improvement opportunities, and nurtures a culture of excellence and professional growth within the institute.

6.4 - Financial Management and Resource Mobilization

6.4.1 - Institution conducts internal and external financial audits regularly Enumerate the various internal and external financial audits carried out during the year with the mechanism for settling audit objections within a maximum of 200 words

The institution ensures financial accuracy and transparency through comprehensive internal and external audits. The primary purpose of these audits is to verify the authenticity of financial transactions and maintain accurate records.

The scope of financial governance includes developing activity-based budgeting with time-bound deliverables and accountability-linked administrative and financial autonomy. The accounts department prepares the annual budget for revenue and capital expenditures, which is approved by the management. Expenses are monitored to align with budgeted resources, avoiding deficit budgeting. Monthly and annual income and expenditure statements (Budget Variance Reports) are analyzed for corrective measures if deviations occur.

Internal Audit is conducted by a management-appointed auditor, ensuring daily verification of transactions, including purchases, cash handling, bank reconciliations, and statutory payments. Periodic reports are submitted to the management for review and action.

External Audit is performed by an auditor appointed through a formal resolution. This audit emphasizes verifying capital expenditures, income sources, statutory payments, and compliance with regulatory requirements. It complements internal audit findings to certify financial accuracy.

Additionally, audits required by the University (SPPU), such as the National Service Scheme (NSS) fund audit and library expense audit, are conducted. Any objections are resolved by the NSS coordinator and Principal. Through these robust mechanisms, the institution achieves and maintains financial integrity and compliance.

The institute follows a structured process for mobilizing and utilizing resources and funds, involving Department Heads, the Accounts Office, and Management approval. Tuition fees serve as the primary revenue source, with specific guidelines ensuring the budgeted allocation of funds.

Utilization of Funds: A Finance Committee oversees expenditures, both recurring and non-recurring. For purchases like equipment, books, and computers, price estimates are requested from suppliers. Quotations are evaluated by designated members based on pricing, quality, and service terms, ensuring informed decisions. The Principal collaborates with the Accounts Department to verify alignment with the approved budget. Management is consulted for clarity or approval if spending exceeds the budget.

Resource Mobilization Policy: Before the financial year begins, the Principal and Department Heads prepare the institutional budget, covering salaries, utilities, maintenance, and capital expenditures like laboratory equipment and furnishings. The senior management and Governing Council review and approve the budget. Expenditures are closely monitored by the Accounts and Purchase Departments to avoid budget overruns. Statutory auditors validate the financial statements annually.

This robust system ensures efficient resource management, financial accountability, and alignment with institutional goals while maintaining transparency and adherence to the approved budget.
