2.2 Catering to Student Diversity

2.2.1 The institution assesses the learning levels of the students, after admission and organises special programs for advanced learners and slow learners

Response:

To assess the academic aptitude level, subject interest and other skill sets of every individual student a three phase assessment program is set in our college.

Phase1. At the time of admission oral interview is conducted by a panel of subject teachers for each applicant, to understand the current level of academic aptitude, interests and other skill sets.

Phase 2: After admission every subject teacher conducts some written small tests, conducts quizzes, allows students to prepare and present presentations, conducts debates etc on some topics to identify the individual capacities, and comfort levels of each student.

Phase 3: After completing the terms syllabus written test are conducted for every subject and for every class. Written papers are assessed and discussed with the students. The reasons for the unsatisfactory performance of every subjects' are identified and compared with other subject and analyzed.

Special programs for slow learners:

Each subject teacher ensures that students with lower levels of aptitude are seated in the front seats. These students are prompted to answer easy and simple questions during the lectures with an objective to increase their concentration span, ensure that they have understood basic concepts correctly. This is done with an objective of actively engaging the students in the learning process and motivating them.

Mentors support and identify the problem to enhance their capabilities of learning process. For the slow learners additional and remedial classes are arranged mainly for subjects like mathematics and accountancy which need more practice.

Classes are arranged after the regular classes. Performance of such students is compared with previous performance to ensure the effectiveness of the additional coaching. For students from vernacular medium 'Communicate in English' classes are conducted so that it is easy for them to cope up with the difficulty of language at the time of attempting the exams. These students hidden talents are identified by the respective mentors and are given opportunities to participate and show case themselves which will effectively boost their confidence and has proved to excel in a year's time. For group activities they are mixed up with advanced learners to gain better understanding as well as to divert their thought process in line with advanced learners.

Special Programs for Advanced learners:

Advanced learners are encouraged to participate in various intercollegiate competitions. They are given charge of organizing and conducting various college events. They are asked to solve tricky, complex and challenging questions, previous question papers and share with the slow learners. Bridge courses are conducted for them. High performers in academic and other activities are awarded in the annual events. The main objectives behind these activities are:

Actively involve all students in the learning process.

Make learning process simple and interesting

Create a feeling of recognition and have an effective learning experience.

7.1.5 Waste Management steps including:

- Solid waste management
- Liquid waste management
- E-waste management

Response:

The College has taken various measures such as developing required infrastructure, creating necessary awareness and organizing activities involving students and collaborating with external agencies to promote environmental consciousness both within and outside the campus.

- Solid waste management - Students are accustomed to use segregated bins to collect wet and dry waste placed all around the campus and classrooms. We have three different pits in campus to accumulate plastics, glass and bio degradable wastes. College has implemented vermiculture compost unit to convert bio degradable waste into fertilizers. Various awareness activities like street plays, cleanliness drives, skits, rallies and exhibitions are conducted in and outside the campus to spread environment awareness.
- Liquid waste management - Recycling of water is promoted through rain water harvesting for which a massive 5Lakh litres capacity tank is constructed and water is utilized for day to day purposes.
- E-waste management- In keeping with our commitment to sustainability, we practice e-waste disposal by storing in a warehouse from where it is handed over to e-waste collectors. Awareness campaign about e-waste is conducted from time to time through seminars and exhibitions. The college strongly focuses on practicing the five ‘Rs’ Reduce-Reuse- Recycle- Re buy- Rethink.

7.1.6 Rain water harvesting structures and utilization in the campus

Response:

Water crisis is a global challenge that requires immediate attention. The College is well equipped with the facility of rain water harvesting. We are using roof top type rain water harvesting system which collects rain water from the roof of the building and divert it to a storage tank with a capacity of 502830 liters. The dimension of the tank is 13.84m (length) x 11.72m (width) x 3.10m (height). The idea behind developing it was not only to cater the need of water for construction work, washing purposes, irrigating the lawn and landscape, flush water in toilets, as fire extinguisher etc., but also to create awareness about water conservation among the students and staff. Rain water harvesting has helped in a big way to reduce the load on drinking water supply. During water crisis, this stored water is used by the local community too. This initiative has encouraged all to know rainwater harvesting techniques and avoid further depletion of ground water.

To mark the independence of India, 15th August is celebrated by conducting various events initiating with flag hoisting ceremony followed by cultural activities like skits, street plays, speeches, dances and songs on patriotic themes. 26th January is one of the most important days in the Indian history when the constitution of India came into existence. Every year we celebrate Republic Day with full spirit and fervor by hoisting flag and conducting various cultural programs in College. National Youth day is observed in our college on 12th January on the occasion of Swami Vivekanad`s birthday. Many youth awareness programs like debate, essay and slogan competitions are conducted highlighting the philosophy and ideologies of Swami Vivekanad. Dr A P J Abdul Kalam is remembered as the 'People`s President` for his work as India`s 11th President and dearly known as the "Missile Man of India". In our College we remember him on 27th July, his death anniversary, by delivering motivational talk on his life and works. Youth Awareness Programme sensitizing Students and Society 'CHISPA'

Objective of the practice

Chispa, a Spanish word meaning 'Be a Spark' is an initiative to awaken the youth of today with a promise to create a new world, with an expectation of a righteous future. Main aim of the Youth Awareness Programme is to provide a platform for students to showcase their talents and skills and stand out as confident citizens and nurture social and emotional learning, in the process, sensitizing the society as well. It is meant to provide opportunities for leadership, event management, nurture creative talent, inculcate rational and logical thinking, enable one to take stand on current important issues through team work.

Context

We have envisaged a vision of a better society. Youth Awareness Programme 'Chispa' aims to inculcate values in students and remain self reliant to meet the challenges of changing times and evoke a thought in the society and community about confronting the social issues as well as personal conflicts of minds.It also reflects the essence of democratic living and upholds the need for selfless service. College life is one of the most exciting and important phases in ones' life. During this period, a student comes across several experiences and learns new things. A youth awareness program adds values to a students learning experience in an innovative and dynamic way.

The Practice

The Indian Higher education system not only emphasizes on academic excellence but also on the holistic development of today's youth. The youth of today can excel in their academic performances but fail to exist in the society without learning human values and ethics. Most of the problems bedeviling the nation, come from the fact that youngsters lack focus and direction to drive their goals in life. Through programmes like Chispa we try to focus on portraying the contemporary real life and problems faced by the youth of today. The themes like 'Corruption', 'Hope', 'Dreams', Relations' were enacted onstage by the students in a series of acts. The programme was open to all as it was aimed to be made for the public, to make them aware about the various problems and solutions. Since the programme is conducted on a larger scale, the planning and execution becomes tedious. Henceforth, preparation for the programme start three months prior with meeting headed by the Principal (Convener), the coordinator, organizing committee and student coordinators. Rigorous interactive sessions were carried out with different committees allocated for Hospitality, Backstage Discipline, Props Management, Costumes & Makeup, Green Room Management, Overall Management of Dances, Refreshment, First Aid, Light and Sound, Discipline, Overall Backstage and Front stage Co-ordination as a part of decentralizing the task ensuring participative management, to chalk out the plan of action. Suggestions from the students as well as ideas formulated from the confrontations and discussions with mentors helps in identifying relevant theme pertaining to students. Stories, scripts, choreography and direction of the entire programme is done by the students supported by the staff and monitored by the convenor himself. The drama played throughout the program in different scenes with different cultural programs enhances the interest and curiosity of the audience which in turn creates a great impact in the minds. All the faculty members are allocated with duties according to their experiences, skills and interests. The groups of staff and students were formed according to the different events, the schedule for the practices was set up without affecting the academic schedule. The experts from the alumni were invited during the practice sessions to train the students in a proper way. They helped to add value to script writing, dances and choir. The team efforts of all staff, students and management went beyond their boundaries to convey the message of this youth awareness program to the society.

Evidence of Success

Witnessing an increased audience year after year of more than 3000 people in the campus our College could spread its wings and its practices are recognized by a massive audience which attracts more students to the college every year. The dignitaries from all walks of life were invited who appreciated the programme as one of the good practices the college has undertaken. Students in their daily behavior ,approaches and practices show drastic positive changes which is well noted by the mentors and they also learn to contribute to society as well as enable them to be team players while cultivating the ability to take on any hurdles and are motivated to channelize their energies and capabilities towards nation building activities voluntarily. This programme plays a vital role in developing personality of the students and strengthening the society as well. It has effectively nurtured talents boosting the innate potentials of students to such a confidence level that they exhibit these qualities to stand alone and transfer their potential and passion towards chances of employment.

Problems Encountered and Resources required

To bring the students back to the flow of academics as the participants are exempted from classes which is in turn monitored later through attendance of students for extra classes which is conducted specially for them.

Success of every programme vests on the hardwork,commitment and dedication of all those involved into it and to ensure commitment from the students of this age and varied states of mind is challenging which is done through continuous motivation

Limitations of financial self sufficiency is yet another major challenge that is confronted with as we aim to conduct a programme at a large scale in open ground with proper technicalities and professionalism for which we have improve mechanism for sponsorship

Result Evaluation

Objective of the Practice

To bring about constructive way of analysis of a student's performance in university examination and get a clear understanding of their objective. Evaluation becomes more constructive when parents or guardians of the ward are included in the process. Our aim is that the students get one to one interaction with HOD, class in-charge and Principal. Evaluation is a systematic analysis of a student's merit. It can assist to assess the degree of achievement of a student and enable the identification of future progress. Individual evaluation is conducted to maintain academic standards and set goals for academic success of every individual, improve their study habits, and time management.

The Context

The generation of students we deal with is very dynamic and needs constant guidance to mould them to chase their aspirations and dreams. Evaluation plays a vital role in boosting their confidence to try again even with failures. Transparent communication is essential to maintain a positive parent-teacher-student relationship; henceforth the message of improving the students' academic and overall development is strongly put forward to parents in presence of students. It is implemented to identify the areas where the student is lacking and henceforth mentoring him to take curative measures.

The Practice

Realizing the concerns in educational system and to bring about better academic results after the declaration of university results, we at Christ College, Pune, distribute the results of our students paying keen attention to each and every student's performance. The parents are requested to come along with the ward, where they will be meeting the staff and the principal personally at Principal's Office. It is a one to one interaction where the class in-charge identifies where and in which subject the student is weak, and with the feedback of parents, reasons for poor performances are evaluated and in certain cases which require further progressive measures, stipulated time is allotted for counseling then and there. The main thrust is given to augment the academic as well as extra- curricular and the overall personality of the student. It is an appropriate way to voice concerns about the students' learning or behaviour. Communication between student, parents, teachers and the Principal is needed for students' success in the classroom and to know how the student can progress. It is observed that in this changing scenario of competitive world, the students are extremely stressed which is reflected in their performances. The main constraint is that a student might be good in academics but due to personal problems he might not excel in extracurricular activities and vice versa. To bring out the best potential from the student by trying to motivate him for holistic excellence is the main objective of the practice. Sometimes the student and the parent do not disclose the root of the stress they are going through in their personal lives. By giving them that extra space and gaining their trust, we provide honest and considerate feedback and all personal discussions are kept confidentially. We offer support by expressing concern, understanding, and empathy, and conveying an attitude of personal acceptance and regard for the student and assure that we care about their well-being. The student's performance is then being evaluated and measures of improvement are discussed with the students ensuring a strong support from teachers and management.

Evidence of success

The parents have welcomed this practice of Christ College open heartedly and have been supportive throughout. The students have shown commendable improvement on their academics and values of life. As specific academic or behavioral issues are discussed for betterment of students and proactive measures for the borderline/ average students are taken through personal counseling, the students have developed trust on us. The communication between student, parent, teacher and Principal has created a partnership in which everyone is working towards the same goal of helping the student achieve success. Teachers take into consideration personal situations and to a great extend adopts different approaches to extract the best out of every student This bond has strengthened the student's confidence to face the multifaceted challenges in future and establish better rapport which has shown tremendous improvement in student's performance and casual attitude to examinations.

Problems Encountered and Resources required

As the result declaration happens during holidays many outstation parents cannot reach on the given dates of issue of mark sheets for which we have to find time with appointments for every single student according to their convenience. In certain cases to view it as a partnership in raising the child rather than pointing fingers at each other with great expectations. At times, we find ourselves in the position of counseling a student about matters beyond the scope of our official academic relationship. Sometimes, this is an uncomfortable role, with murkier boundaries than intellectual mentorship. For us, it is a challenging balance between respecting the limits of our position and wanting to offer as much support to a student as possible.

The NAAC self study was a project that benefitted us in every way to introspect and reflect into every area of our ongoing higher education program and it aided us to channelize our future in a more systematised direction. It helped us to think critically and further refine all documentation process. However we are optimistic about our future and remain dedicated to surpass all shortcomings through team efforts and participative management by strictly adhering to the college's long term vision and look forward to suggestions and comments of NAAC peer team. Committing to quality and comprehending the need of it we recognize the importance of accreditation and is obligated to meet the policies of NAAC.
